Layarin Some ways, this is a vote for the potential of layar as much as the practical application. Walking through your phone and see Wikipedia's subjects, apartments for sale and what Twitter users have delighted through your phone is a rather accurate thing, and potentially useful when you're looking for things to do in a new city. But as Layar continues to add new levels, and how the camera and mobile processing power continue to improve, Layar could become much more interesting than already. One thing worth remembering is that if you don't like the view of the 3D camera, or as the appearance of yourself while you use it, Layar can only show the points of interest on a Google type map. Anyway that you use it, it's an intriguing aspect to what is happening around the corner.
