[3] The BlackBerry Z10 is the first of two new BlackBerry phones unveiled at the BlackBerry 10 event on January 30, 2013. [4] The BlackBerry Z10 was followed by the Z30. Development BlackBerry chief operating officer Kristian Tear and chief marketing officer Frank Boulben fought co-founder and former co-CEO Mike Lazaridis to have the Z10 touch screen prioritized over the Q10 that has a physical keyboard. [5] Boulben was then responsible and received "criticism for the marketing campaign that supported the release of Z10, including a confusing Super Bowl ad that some board members hated." [5] Both Tear and Boulben were sacked on November 25, 2013 by the new CEO John S. Chen, who had been working for several weeks.had replaced Thorsten Heins. [5] Software Main Article: BlackBerry 10 The BlackBerry Z10 uses the new BlackBerry 10 (currently running on 10.3.3) QNX-based mobile operating system. The user interface of BB 10 is based on the concept of direct manipulation, using multi-task gestures. Interaction with the operating system includes a range of multi-touch gestures, all of which have specific definitions within the context of the BB10 operating system and its multi-touch interface. The Z10 comes preloaded with a variety of default BlackBerry apps. [6] The phone has a mobile hotspot functionality, which supports up to 8 devices, sharing their connection to the Internet. [7] Access BlackBerry World, an online app distribution platform for BlackBerry OS. The service allows users to browse and download apps, games, music, videos from the BlackBerry World Store. In addition, the touch screen keyboard learns the user's typing style and suggests words to help the faster type of user. [8] The BlackBerry Z10 has an 8-megapixel rear-facing camera, as well as a 2-megapixel front-facing camera. Their camera software includes a branded burst mode like "Timeshift." [9] [7] The Z10 has voice control, which allows the user to operate the phone by spoken commands. This can be used to send messages, compose emails, dictate documents and search the phone by just talking to the app. [8] Hardware There are four skus for the BlackBerry Z10, corresponding to the band distribution of the North American company and international versions. The LTE version of the Z10 features the Qualcomm Snapdragon S4 Plus (SOC) which has a dual-core CPU running at 1.5 Å GHz and a PowerVR SGX 544 GPU. [11] You will use the STE M5730. Z10 follows all the design of the phone from the blackboard, with the exterior exterior From the frame, it is made of plastic combined with an indoor stainless steel frame, while the rear cover was made of plastic and protected with rubber finish. The on / off and volume buttons were made of metal is available in 2 color variants, which is black and white.
